“ Agnes is able to experience her life, her choices and her interests she had not understood before. I’m definitely proud of the development they go through as strangers to friends to family even though they are already sisters. I’m truly grateful to have participated in the play as I had a personal connection to all of the characters. ”

“ I’m very proud of the production we put on. She Kills Monsters is about acceptance and creativity. I think everyone involved really brought that to life. It was a great experience that I would recommend to everyone. Come join the Hoover Drama family! ”

“ I’m very proud of the cast and crew of She Kills Monsters. We told an amazing story with one simple message - love and accept yourself as who you are proudly. ”

“ My favorite thing about the production was the fight scenes that took place. My character and I are two totally different people, but the challenge was accepted and it was performed in a graceful way. ”
