Odin McDonald may commonly be seen as a heavily involved member of the Pleasant Valley Drama Department, but McDonald shows all around school spirit that has been noticed by his peers. As a freshman, he began to dive into the many learning opportunities the department has to offer. McDonald has acted along with working on building the set and running the tech on nearly all productions on the Spartan stage. Pleasant Valley boasts an impressive improv program, and McDonald has been a key member in this as well. He was a member of WACIT for three years, and in those years, the group was awarded with many honors such as Division 1 ratings, All-State Speech qualification and performing on the main stage at Iowa Thespian Festival. As an active member of the arts community at the high school, McDonald has also been involved in choir for four years and is a talented photographer. McDonald has gone through numerous digital photography classes and, his senior year, captured numerous images while working towards his portfolio for the AP Art exam. An uncommon, but long time passion of his is go kart racing. He has worked on and raced different karts throughout his life. McDonald also was a member of the Frontline his senior year under the Friday Night Lights, cheering on the Spartans. All achievements aside, McDonald is regarded as a kind and fun student within the school. His senior year he was voted onto Homecoming Court and Prom Court.

Sam Kowing '21 went to Elementary School with Mason Allen '21.

Mason Allen '21 really likes Cyrus Barati's '21 cat shirts.
