

Our generation understands that sometimes we must experience discomfort to break barriers. Or open a dialogue with those who seem different but actually share similar values. We seek opportunities for self-expression and cherish our individuality. We continue to celebrate who we are, as well as what we are hoping to become.

TIE-DYED TROJANS Seniors Conner Hopkins, Noah Meints, Coleson Krupp and Zach Albright cheer on the drumline at the Best Buddies Tie-dye game Sept. 7. FINISH LINE Katie Hoefer '21 finishes the race Aug. 23 at the Ashton Cross Country Course. Hoefer placed seventh. "I thought that was a really great start to our season." LET'S GO WEST Cheering for the Women of Troy, Lauren Zacharias '19 screams in the crowd after West spikes the ball against Liberty on Aug. 28.

GIVE ME A W The dance team finishes their routine with a W made of poms Sept. 7. "I like dancing at football games because of the atmosphere. It's such a big part of the high school experience, and it's a great time to see people outside of school," Maddy Floss '19 said.

That characteristic — an open-mindedness, a desire to excel, a willingness to appreciate other perspectives — has remained strong since our doors opened in 1968. Today, Generation West represents 60 different languages, yet we still seek to adapt and thrive. Who we are has not changed. What we represent has not changed.
