

Snapping/Sharing

New World, Old Apps

Back from the dead, Snapchat and Instagram were easily the top apps in 2019. Instagram was very popular around 2012, but has now made a come back. It started growing again in 2017, but has continued to popularize more and more. Many people have joined Instagram, and studies say that Instagram will have over 111 million users after 2019!

Snapchat has added many new features including new filters almost every week. Snapchat was created in September 2010, and Instagram followed over a year later, being created in October 2011. "It's easier to talk one-on-one or talk to everyone in a group chat on Snapchat," said senior Grace Lomelino.

Out of 25 random surveys, 13 students said they liked Snapchat compared to Instagram due to filter options. Nine of the 25 students agreed that they liked the dog filter on Snapchat the most.

~ Jai Edwards

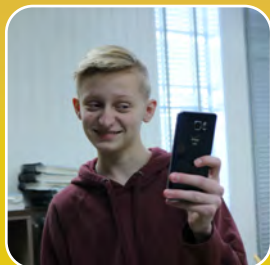

Jai Edwards

Easier To Talk Checking in on her friends, freshman Alyssa Epping looks at her friend's story with an all-knowing look. "Snapchat is more interesting and it's easier to talk to people," said Epping.

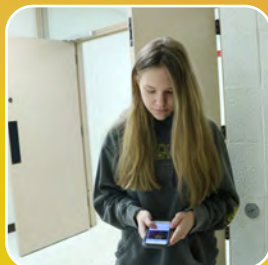

Jai Edwards

Face the Filter With her favorite filter on Snapchat, junior Tyla Bourrage gives her biggest smile. "I use Snapchat the most because it has fun and cool filters," said Bourrage.

Using a face distorting filter, sophomore Andrew Savely grimaces at his results. "I'm on Snapchat too much," said Savely.

Through her feed freshman Cadence Reed scrolls for music posts on Instagram, with a simple swipe. "There's more to do on Instagram," said Reed.

On Snapchat, freshman Ethan Jackson looks at the Discover stories on the fails of the week and through his friends' stories.