

from the EDITORS

Boy oh boy, was this school year one for the books! When we chose this theme we thought it would be a great opportunity to show the year from each student's perspective, and notice some things about the year that we may have looked over in the past. I can confidently say that neither Rachel, nor I, could've guessed that it would later be applied to a pandemic. As a yearbook we felt that our coverage of this year's events was more important than ever.

Each year at least one special thing happens, despite everything that may be going awry. I think it's important that we try to remember those moments no matter what. Because even if the hairstyle or the jeans become embarrassing, how we felt in those moments should be cherished.

As editors we hope you appreciate how much our staff has put into this yearbook, the creative ideas spilled on each page, and the hours that have been spent attempting to gather what each and every student thought was a highlight of this year.

From the colophon to Senior signatures, I hope you enjoy and reflect on all the highlights from this year.

Abbey Shepley, 12

Whew! That was crazy, we just highlighted the history of YOU and we couldn't be more proud of it! This book may seem simple from the outside, but we hope you see the memories and craziness that makes this book unique and special. I'm very thankful to have been able to support and capture all of you through your Baxter High School adventures.

I never thought I would become so invested in the yearbook and creating content that revolves around all of you, but it's sad to think it's coming to an end. Abbey, the yearbook staff, and I are extremely excited to be able to make this book for you all and be able to share it with who made it possible. This year may not have gone as planned, but it has challenged us all to make what we enjoy happen. We can now look back and find the good and embarrassing highlights of high school.
