Josie Kaffenberger is a freshman that is a dedicated dancer and student. Josie is involved in the Pleasant Valley Platinum Dance team. She also participates in studio dance outside of school. Dance is very time consuming for her and can be stressful at certain times. Josie maintains her school work by staying on task and focusing. She uses her 8th period resource to her advantage. During this time, she puts in as much effort as she can to finish her school work. She also uses any free time in school to try to complete her schoolwork. She knows the nights she has practices or games that it's important to stay on task and to finish her school work given her very busy schedule.

This year, Josie competed at the Iowa state solo competition. As a freshman, she got 1st place for her division. She had to raise the standards and rise above the exceptions. To do this, it took hours of practice and hard work. Dance has had a huge impact on her life. Although it's time consuming it has several benefits for her. It's provided her friendships and skills. Dance has taught Josie several skills. For example, time management, responsibility, and memorization skills. From spending years dancing she has developed these skills over time. Time management is an important skill she has gained. She can use this skill throughout her life, but she can also use it during school. This skill helps her in school to complete given tasks on time, finish projects and test, and complete homework. As you can see this skill is very important in Josie's everyday life. Josie enjoys the positive environment dance has to offer. She states, "I really enjoy the environment dance provides. The studio is like a home away from home." She mentions how the studio is a home away from home. This means she spends so much time and loves dancing there so much that it feels like another home to her. Dance has showed her many skills and developed several friendships throughout her life.
