

TRIM LINE

— REVAMPED —

Story by Ashlee Elliott

Rebecca Conrad started an online business called Revamped in July 2020. In May, she wanted to make a difference in the world and saw how much plastic a human being uses and wastes. Conrad said, “I hate throwing them away.” Instead, she decided to recycle plastic and sell the products she makes from it.

On her online business she sells woven bags made out of recycled plastic bags, jewelry made out of glass beads and fishing line, and lots of other recycled accessories. Most of the materials she uses are donated supplies from her family, friends, and neighbors. Every once in a while she does have to get supplies in bulk from Amazon like clasps for her jewelry. Otherwise, most of her items are nearly from 100 percent recycled materials.

A huge problem that Conrad would like to be changed in today’s society is our look on the big producers. Conrad said, “I wish the big producers would help more because they have the platform and money to help do it.” A way that we can help the environment is by taking little steps at a time. First, we could reduce the amount of plastic water bottles we use and instead carry around a glass or reusable water bottle. Then we could keep on stepping forward and make little changes to get to an ending goal.

Buying Conrad's products, advertising her business, and helping her get materials are just some of the ways people like us can help Conrad in her business. If you have any extra fishing line that is not being used, old jewelry, or a lot of unused plastic grocery bags, Conrad would be happy to take them. If you would also like something to be made or old jewelry you would like to give a new life, she can fix it up for you. Conrad is a young and strong adult that is taking her share in helping our Earth and she would love for you to join and help her and many others’ in their journeys.
