Students hang out after hours

“The other night, it was my first night goose hunting of the next season. My buddies were playing with it. We were all playing around with it, we were joking around with it. We put one on top of my truck. Oliver Dayton started walking around with the goose strapped to his mirror on his truck and started driving around the parking lot. That’s just where we hangout we play catch, ride skateboards and stuff.”

“During quarantine some of our parents were really strict at the beginning about whether we can hang out without social distancing or not. So we saw on Tik Tok the idea of parking your cars and sitting in your trunks and just sitting with blankets that was a way we could at least be together during the time that we didn’t really know what was going to happen. We would just play music and just have the most fun we could whether it was dancing or making Tik Tok.”

“So we found a bunch of random stuff so we started playing baseball. We used a pvc pipe as a bat, a water bottle as a ball, and car mats as bases.”

“There’s a lot of different ones just like hangout to have fun or seeing kids we don’t normally see because of the switch days we get to hang out with them. Just to see friends and have a good time. We have skateboards, football just whatever you wanna do, do.”
