

Make it a FRIGHT NIGHT

by junior Addison Grady

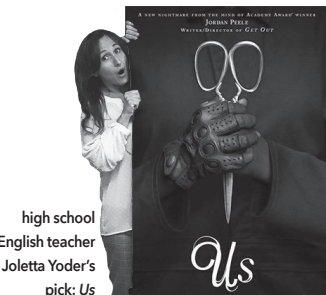

It, Lights Out, The Conjuring... who doesn't love a good jump scare movie with a friend? Filmmaker and The Office's John Krasinski brought viewers a horror movie that is unlike any jump scare you've ever seen.

In April of 2018, Krasinski's A Quiet Place came out. In this movie, silence is survival. Alien creatures have infiltrated Earth and utilize sound to track and hunt survivors. Any noise is an immediate death sentence. But through it all, Lee and Evelyn Abbott (Krasinski & Emily Blunt) have raised their two kids, Regan and Marcus (Millicent Simmonds & Noah Jupe), this way despite their circumstances. They have been through life-shattering losses but still survived, which is one quality that makes this horror film different from the norm. The Abbott parents resonated with audiences through their love and desire to protect their children shown in the emotional quote "Who are we if we can't protect them?"

Lots of screaming can be expected in a scary movie, but this one was completely different. According to the washingtonpost.com, there were only 90 lines of spoken dialogue incorporated in entirety, leaving viewers like me on the edge of my seat. The lack of sound and music added suspense because you could note that the silence was suspenseful.

One thing most scary movies contain that prohibit most kids from being able to watch scary movies are swear words. This movie has no profanity or foul language, making it a good movie for the whole family to watch.

So, the next time you're in the mood for a good, scary movie that is wildly different from anything you've ever seen, try watching Krasinski's A Quiet Place. Jump scares guaranteed!

high school English teacher Joletta Yoder's pick: Us

junior Jaelyn Murr's pick: The Blair Witch Project

high school vocal teacher Casey Tecklenburg's pick: Hereditary

senior Donny Arraut's pick: It: Chapter Two

by sophomore Lane Rogers

Board games are a classic pastime, and everyone has their favorites. Maybe for you, it's Monopoly, The Game of Life, or Scrabble. Yet, at some point, admit it- even your favorite board game becomes a bored game. Now don't worry, Jeremy Staker has a solution for that.

In March of 2020, Staker opened Just One More in the former space occupied by Witt/Retrospect Photography at 513 Washington St. in Hudson. The store sells dozens of classic board games like Monopoly and Scrabble. You can even purchase these games under different themes such as It or Harry Potter. They are also typically cheaper at Just One More than at other big-box stores like Walmart or Target.

Just One More also sells dice games, such as the classic Yahtzee, the dice version of well-known games like Catan, and a popular dice game called Zombie Dice.

Card games like Magic the Gathering and Pokémon are available for purchase, too. Both games use cards where you can go head to head against your opponent. Just One More also hosts Magic the Gathering tournaments for all ages every Friday night from 7:30 to 10 p.m.

But, that's not all. Just One More also sells pencil and paper games, most popularly Dungeons and Dragons (D&D). In fact, it's so popular that they host a game night for it in their special D&D room on Sundays. This room features an electronic table that, when the game is played, shows the map for the entire mythical world that has mesmerized thousands since its start in 1974.

The store also sells merch like card binders, wands, and Pop! Characters.

Gamers can even pick up snacks ranging from chips to beef jerky to assorted candy favorites. But, make sure to grab some Reese's Peanut Butter Cups and Hershey's chocolate first- the store's best sellers that often sell out.

So next time your board game turns into a bored game, go to Just One More!

Check out their website at justonemoregames.com.

