

▼ Deshaun Quinn, '15, begins his walk across the stage during the graduation ceremony with a giant hug with Principal Greg Semler.

► Terrence Williams, Allison LeGrand, Austin Howe, Kallie Kriegel, and Riley Peters, all '15 get hypnotized.

152

students graduated from the class of 2015 and are heading off to college or other directions after the summer this year.

◀ Mr. Dave Messerli gets a special thanks from Principal Greg Semler for being a dedicated teacher at Marion for the past 43 years.

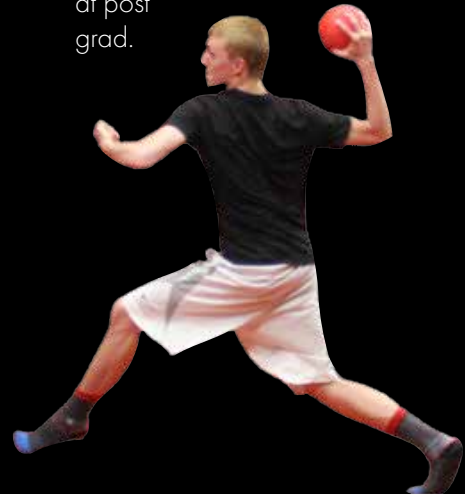

"I don't remember most of it, but I was told I was hilarious."
-Terrence Williams, '15

"I felt very honored to be giving a speech. I was absolutely terrified until I stepped up to the podium and started talking. It was just me and my class."
- Kayla Comried, '15

The last hoorah of the year

Nick Wheeler, '15, participates in the dodgeball tournament at post grad.

Graduation

Graduation. When one finishes all four years of high school. From the awkward freshman years to finishing senior year and getting ready for college. When one graduates they get the opportunity to walk at graduation ceremony and enjoy a nice party called post grad. Seniors, Savannah Guyer and Jozee Peyton were two of the many people to attend both of these.

Ceremony

"Marion's graduation ceremony was awesome to be a part of, but very nerve-racking. My favorite part was being able to say thank you to the teachers one last time," stated Guyer.

When the seniors leave, they don't just leave people, they leave behind memories that were made over their four year journey at this wonderful high school. "I am going to miss pre gaming with my basketball team," Peyton said.

"I am going to miss being a part of of the journalism team the most, it was the hardest thing to let go of. I found my voice within the journalism team," said Guyer. Senior year is the year of lasts. Everything one does may just be the last time.

Post Grad

Graduation is not the last event for the seniors. They are invited for one last hoorah at the high school called post grad. At this event they play wonderful games, get hypnotized, and all in the process can win many prizes. "My favorite part of post grad was the hypnotist duh...Everyone looked like they were possessed by a demon and it was funny," chuckled Peyton. "The best thing about post grad is how the students, faculty, and parents of MHS come together to help celebrate the graduation process together," Guyer stated.

Good bye

It's a great way for the seniors to celebrate their accomplishments.

▲ Emily Meeks, '15, attempts to dunk the mini basketball into the hoop in a fun game at post grad.

◀ Kali Gamerdinger and Allison Edwards, both '15, smile for the camera with fun props.

▼ Savannah Guyer, '15, helps a fellow students put on her cap before their graduation ceremony.

► Kylie McAllister, '15, walks across the stage to receive her diploma and shakes hands with Marion's superintendent, Sarah Pinion.

◀ Justin Arebaugh, '15, attempts to bounce a balloon off of his head without dropping it so he can win a prize during post-graduation.