Playful passes, Hannah Van Roekel '15 has a couple laughs on the grid iron at powder puff Oct. 16. "It's fun to see people's competitive side and to represent your class," she said.

Hold still! Becca Staib '16 instructs Raven Lance '16 not to move as she attempts to paint a W on her Sept. 19 before the battle of the boot. "My adrenaline rises when I cheer in front of a crowd," Lance said.

Let's get loud! Katie McGrane '17 shouts with Sofia Perez '17 at a kickoff to the gold-out football game. "It was so fun to just dance and have a great time," Perez said.

UP CLOSE,

Madi Ford '17 and Anna Tafolla '17 observed potato cells in biology class Sept 10. Later, an ice cream social drew Best Buddies members, who gathered around buddy Kate Lipes '15 as she sang the national anthem.

Playing the game "Let Me See Your ..." as part of a team-building exercise Sept. 16, juniors Rachel Weeks, Zainab Makky, Annie Peterson and Ashlynn Dale voiced their enthusiasm. "I like how we're focused on being a team," Weeks said.

Dance Marathon's hair drive attracted an audience to the commons after school Sept. 18, when science teacher Jennifer Secrist shaved the head of math teacher Kay Nigg. Nigg said she hoped to "make people aware of the hardships cancer patients endure while out in public."

"One, two, three!" Rabid fans in camo flung 40 pounds of flour into the air at Trojan Field on Sept. 19, creating a murky scene at the Battle of the Boot. That dusty event was the brainchild of Hannah Van Roekel '15. "I looked around and everyone was white," she said. "It looked like it had just snowed."

Before marching onto Trojan Field with his tuba, Myriah Boyer '15 handed an extra jacket to Amelia Herlein '15 so she could stay warm at that game.
