

Once Upon a Time...

Tim Rummels (16)

Fantavshia Sanders (17)

With each person having a distinct attribute that they bring to the school, and with more than 1,500 students, it's hard to spotlight that many individuals. We decided to accumulate many personal stories of our student body. Why try to highlight all of this pandemonium? When you sit next to the cheerleader in English class, all you see is the uniform. Do you know more about this person? Their story outside of school? Many would answer truthfully with a "no." With this in mind, we wanted to create a book full of embarrassing memories and anecdotes of locker room laughs, unfolding our school's history and marking the times that were prominent throughout the terms. (S. Flores)

...but that's just Part of My Story.

1.) Special Olympics team member Tony McDonnell (15) plays basketball. McDonnell is great at basketball. "I like shooting the ball," he remarked. (Contributed)

2.) In the weight room, Michael Rediger (16), Tyson Morrison (16) and Andrew Rink (16) wait to talk to their coach. Athletes train year-round for their sports, even after their seasons are done. "We're required to do it for sports, but our instructor is great and pushes us hard," Rink believed. (T. Wyatt)

3.) Finishing up homework, Jade Bullock (17) and Chanler DeVore (18) sit in the fourth floor hallway. DeVore also used his time during English 1 to do his work quietly in the hall. "We do it to spread out the class," he shared. (T. Wyatt)

4.) In auto class, Jacob Ball (17) and Ja Luggiel (17) work on a car. Electives like this one are often unknown to students, but the students who take them get a lot of life skills out of them. "The amount of dirt you get on your hands is really hard to get off," Lugviel laughed. (A. Thomas)

Summer is a coming and we can all feel that excitement in the air. Term D is a time for people to admittedly say that they are completely over school and just want it to be summer break. Even though we wish it was June already, Term D is just as important to our story as any other term throughout the year. Term D is filled with tennis matches, Prom, baseball tournaments, golf meets and, for seniors, the senior picnic and graduation. Finals are the dreadful end to our year but are vital for our education. Vacations are near but not quite yet here. Students are eager to finish their tests and go on a lengthy break of enjoyment with their friends and family. However, we are sad to see our seniors go and to see an end to another great year that was part of our story. (S. Flores)

5.) As members of the Environmental Club, Grace Ester (18) and Lornine Pereira (16) empty out the recycling. This club's job can be dirty, but still a lot of fun. "It's a great way to make a difference but also make new friends," Pereira mentioned. (T. Wyatt) music-making so much, but the greatest part is giving back the gifts that were given to me when I was a young musician," he divulged. (N. Cunningham)

Chapter 5: Term D

7.) In Ms. Schrader's room, Destinee Shelton ( $\pi$ ) enjoys a classroom pizza party. The class won the party as an incentive from the Hunger Drive. T loved the pizza," Shelton remembered. (A. Thornas)
