

A Night to Remember

Above: A group of girls dance with their hands in the air.
Right: Junior Emily Tvedt slow dances with her date sophomore Zach Vig.
Below Right: Junior Katie Wycoff and freshman Tucker Dickson smile for a photo.
Below: Using boas, masks, and other props, junior and senior girls pull funny faces for the camera.

Above: Senior Kyler Shannon laughs as he picks up his friend freshman Aiden Frantz.
Above Right: Seniors Delaney Dicus and Anne Liberko look through the playlist.
Right: At post prom, people play a life size Hungry, Hungry Hippos game using scooters and buckets while being steered by other students.

46

Beaming Beauties

Juniors Hayley Corkin and Nate Novak smile uncontrollably as they dance. April 30 at the Celebration Farm in Solon. Photo by Emma Klinkhammer.

Making Memories

Above: Exchange student Henry Carrasco smiles with senior Matt Hermsen White.
Above Left: Caught in the moment, seniors Nicole Margheim and Hannah Clark lock hands and laugh.
Left: Foreign exchange student Carlos Castro covers his face with a mustache while posing with freshman Lauren Kalm.

Picture Perfect PROM

Peace Out at Prom

Below: Junior Jessika Brokel flashes a funny face and peace signs in the middle of the dance floor April 30.

By Mickey Hines and Breanna Jones

In hundreds of teen movies, prom is depicted as the most important night of your life. Girls spend fortunes on the perfect dress and work hours upon hours doing their hair and makeup. Boys devise a foolproof way to ask the girl of their dreams to prom and arrive on their doorstep in a clean-cut tuxedo for the big night.

Although prom doesn't come cheap, there are ways to save cash. For both boys and girls, you can borrow your outfit for the big event. "Borrow shoes or a dress from someone. I did that last year because I went to two proms," said senior Jaylee Delancey. Prom dresses can range from $50 to $200, using someone's dress from a few years ago saves your bank account and hours of trying to find the right dress.

Another way to dip into your savings account would be renting a limo. In many movies, the limo pulls into the front of the school and the dazzling couple gets out while everyone stares in envy. This is not only expensive but it's also unrealistic. Very few people go through the hassle of renting and paying for a $200 limo. If you're trying to save money, cutting out the limo should be heavily considered. "I wouldn't be surprised if renting a limo was the first thing you eliminated," said junior Ethan Wenz.

Getting makeup professionally done is another way to spend a lot of money on something unnecessary. Many girls have a talent for doing makeup and you can ask for help on the big night or you can do your own. "I do my own makeup, you don't need to drop $500 on prom every year especially when most of the things you're spending money on can be done at home for free," said senior Alex Abresch.

Prom may be expensive and time consuming, but there are ways to cut back while still enjoying the dance. Even if it you have to break into your savings account, prom might end up being the peak of high school.

Late Night Games

Above: Senior Isaiah Exley Schuman throws a ping pong ball while he plays juice pong during post prom held in the middle school gym.

TRIM LINE TRIM LINE

TRIM LINE TRIM LINE

Follow the Leader

Senior Delaney Dicus leads the other students on the dance floor with a smile on her face.

What was your favorite song to dance to?

"Get Low" by Lil Jon. It's a fun one."

Yves Cotterill '17

"The Macarena."

Brittney Darrow '17

"The Running Man."

Mickey Hines '16

Prom layout by Laura Adrian and Breanna Jones