MEMORIES. "I really enjoyed powder puff and had a blast participating. It was such an amazing way to kick off the start of the year, along with the rest of homecoming week. The hype for power puff is something that I will never forget, and I will forever cherish that moment when we won," Vanessa Kime ('17) said.

SENIORSTAKE THE FIELD. Right as the powder puff game is about to begin, Charlie Marlin ('16) is one of the many girls leading the seniors onto the field. "My favorite part of powder puff was probably getting close with the girls that I didn't know, like at practice the o-line was our own little family, so it was cool," Marlin said. Photo by Logan Cole

WORKING FOR THE WIN. During the powder puff game, Abbey Kuntz ('16) and Megan Lumetta ('17) go head to head. "It was really fun to play on the field, but a little scary because of the amount of people there and the bright lights shining down on you. It kind of felt like a stage," Lumetta said. Photo by Logan Cole

WORKING HARD. Running towards the end zone with the game winning touchdown is Reilly Johnson ('17) and her teammate Sierra Fredickson ('17). "I was very excited when I scored because it put us ahead of the seniors, and then we won." Photo by Logan Cole

CARRYING THE COLORS. With battle cries, the seniors take the field. "Before the game, I started getting anxious and nervous but excited at the same time," Abbey Kuntz ('16) said. "I'm just playing the game and having fun with it. Afterwards, I was sad because we didn't end our senior year of powder puff like we wanted to, but everyone had fun with it, so I was happy." Photo by Logan Cole

FAMILY FEUD

Sisters go head to head on opposite sides

As she stood on the sidelines dripping with sweat and the final minutes ticked away from the big powder puff game, Ellie Haan ('17) could see that she would have bragging rights over her big sister.

The tension between Ellie and Larissa ('16) had been strong ever since they both committed to their separate teams. "I was nervous before we started, mainly because I didn't want to get punched in the face or hit real hard. I was scared Larissa was just gonna come after me," Ellie said.

The sisters' rivalry extended all the way home, and Ellie said, "We would joke about stupid stuff about taking each other out and who was better than the other. We both threatened to go after each other (in a loving way, of course)."

"Going up against Ellie I think made it more fun. It made me want to win even more," Larissa said.

And then the drama came to life. "During the game, I was very frustrated, but whenever we scored it raised my spirits, and I got very competitive," Larissa said.

It was the second loss that Larissa and the class of 2016 had to face, as the juniors locked up the win 13 to 6.

"After the game ... not gonna lie, I was pissed, but also sad because it was my last powder puff. I am very competitive, so losing was hard for me. I think we got ripped off on some of the calls. It kind of felt like it was rigged for the juniors to win, not gonna lie," Larissa said.

But in the end, both walked away unblemished except, of course, for Larissa's ego. According to Ellie, "Only for a little bit was there hard feelings, but once we got home, we joked around and watched videos of the game together."

Ellie said her "best memory was when I juked Larissa out. It was awesome since Larissa is so good. I finally got around her."

And after it all, like the rest of the juniors and seniors, the Haan girls were rivals that night on the field but remained sisters at heart.

FIGHTING FOR THE WIN. As the whistle blows in the second quarter, Alexa Doyle ('16) pushes through Jenna Clark's ('17) defense. "It was pretty competitive the whole time," Clark said. "Every year the seniors expect to win because they do almost every year. As juniors, we felt like we had something to prove. Practically everyone told us that we were going to lose, so we wanted so badly to prove them wrong." Photo by Regina Galvez

CELEBRATION. Swooping onto the field after securing the victory, the class of 2017 celebrates its first ever powder puff win. "Before the game I was really nervous and scared. While on the field, I was hyped and ready to kill. When we won, it was exhilarating, and I was super happy," Izzy Steffener ('17) said. Photo by Katie Dolezal
