In a final countdown, Ally Bauer '17 awaited that moment her pearly whites would become braces-free. After a little over two years of care with Jean Treder Orthodontics, Bauer's patience paid off Sept. 26 when her braces were removed. In downtown Mount Vernon, Zak Ranshaw '14 wore his football jersey with pride as he posed for a senior portrait with Amy Rose Photography on Oct. 9. Each week Kristina Bauer '14 climbed a ladder to change the Hills Bank business sign on Second Street in Coralville. A quick stop at the Coral Ridge Mall provided Paige Parker '14 with a strawberry smoothie from Orange Julius. Rage Grafix sold senior girls their "Sauser's Dream Team" T-shirts before the Oct. 3 Powderpuff game, and Hollywood Graphics printed bright neon poms shirts for the dance team and their supporters so they could arrive at competitions in style. Nights by the pool, seniors TJ Rogers and Kate Noel tried to make the most of their work breaks by doing homework while working as lifeguards for Coralville Recreation Services.
