

Kicking the Bucket

Students strive for the ultimate adventure

What's the craziest thing you ever saw on T.V. and then tried to do at home?

"At the end of Tarzan, when the bad guy falls and chokes on the vines...I didn't think that would actually choke him. So I tied my blinds string around my neck and jumped off my bed, then my mom had to come save me."

-Douglas Foderberg ('15)

"Me and my brother were watching cartoons and saw the people slip on banana peels. So we went to the kitchen and tried it but it didn't work and my mom yelled at us for getting banana on the floor."

-Bryce Schults ('15)

Some have serious goals for the future but almost all people have crazy and wild adventures they want to do before they "kick the bucket." When asked what was on their "bucket lists," some students were unfamiliar with the term even if they may have unknowingly had one.

In shop class, there were many students who expressed an interest in cars and their future jobs.

"I want to build a 1969 Chevrolet Corvette Stingray and also be in the Marine Corp," explained Nick Chase

('15). With similar interests, Brian Englander ('15) disclosed, "I want to go into the army and become a mechanical engineer and build a 1968 Buick Convertible."

Girls like building cars too, though, contrary to popular belief.

"For my bucket list I want to rebuild a busted car and make it into a really hot one," Mariah Garcia ('16) mused.

Whether it's fixing up a car, joining the Marines, going scuba diving or just having a plain wanderlust to travel the world, everyone's bucket list is uniquely different. (S. Flores)

Adventure Time

Students share items they have already crossed off their bucket lists

"I wanted to redecorate my room and finally got to when I moved to a new house."

-Kayla Goodenough ('17)

"I went to Cedar Point, the amusement park in Ohio."

-Sebastian Taylor ('14)

"I went to Disney World. It was fantastic!"

-Allison Caven ('15)

"I survived middle school and made it here."

-Kelsea Caras ('17)
